

An update from the West's think tank

Visit our website

Online Currents delivers economic news in real time

Welcome to the new Currents – a western Canadian information resource that has gone fully online . . . because it's 2016!

For more than five years, the Currents quarterly newsletter has provided western Canadians with a unique perspective on the economies of the four western provinces. Now, Currents will deliver that same quality information but on a much more frequent basis.

Working with our sponsorship partner, Canadian Western Bank, Currents has undergone a complete transformation. Check it out now. And click the Subscribe button to receive notices of updates on the Currents site as they are posted.

Our impact is growing as our reach expands

In tumultuous times like these, there is even greater urgency for reliable, non-partisan advice to shape public policy that works for the West.

The Foundation's work is being heard more than ever – in the corridors of power, at board tables and in the public. In 2015, we were quoted in the news media, our opinion and analysis articles published, and our research disseminated more widely than at any time in the Foundation's history.

Read more about our year of impact here. You can also see examples of recent news articles citing our work. And review our research and presentations here.

Tell us how you are feeling about the West's prospects

Last year was a tough one economically for all four western provinces, and we enter 2016 with a furrowed brow.

Tell us what you think. Will we end this year better off than we are now? Or do you see a cloudy future for the West? Take our one-click poll now!

Can we do better at keeping you up to date?
Send your suggestions to: feedback@cwf.ca

FOLLOW US ON . . .

